(ARGUMENTATION)

1. Does the essay take a clear and strong stand on an issue? What is the thesis? Is it debatable (meaning it's a worthwhile topic)?

2. What are the author's major points made in support of his/her position? What additional arguments might help?

3. What other evidence might help strengthen the argument?

4. Does the essay summarize and refute the best opposing arguments? If not, what might they be? If so, is the refutation effective? What might help it?

5. What structure did the author use? Does the author put a counter-argument in/after each section or use one large one before/after their body paragraphs? Is their decision a good one? Can you offer any suggestions to improve it?

6. Can you identify a strategy used in the introduction and conclusion? How might they be improved?

7. Overall, what are the essay's main strengths and weaknesses? What might you change if the essay were yours?
